Took a highschool diploma in Biotechnology and chemistry, where i ended with a grade of 10.7. Took a highschool diploma in Biotechnology and chemistry: capable of doing PCR testing. Fluent in english, danish and somewhat capable of understand french and spanish due to my understanding of latin. Highschool exam project was using c sharp (unity) to make a game. Currently doing a bsc in engineering (software) at Aalborg university. Incredibly disciplined, and work good in teams. Once had a girlfriend in highschool: was incredibly dumb. Was horrible at school work though. University focuses on teamwork, so i have lots of experience with larger groups. Lots of skills in programming. Best friend is kinda stupid and rude, but still, he's lots of fun to be with. Worst enemy is sometimes also my best friend. Hes stupid though. Large interest in electronics. Done multiple projects. Through university, i have learned c in depth. Capable of using machine learning using python. Also read a lot of statistics and probability theory to learn the theory behind it. Can use neural networks, to predict behavior. Earlier work include: working at a sushi restaurant, Bilka, bauhaus, Q8, and with selling christmas trees. Because of this, im disciplined in customer service. Also good at handling lots of things at once, without getting stressed out. Degree in computer science
